BURGLAR CURSES JUDGE. STRIKE-BREAKERS CAPTIVES. FIGHTS WARDERS AND

Five Men and Straitjacket Needed to Get Convict From Tombs to Train.

fathaniel J. Humphries or James -he is known by both names -a ils-foot negro, heavy in proportion, is on his way to Sing Sing, where Judge ieen in General Sessions sentenced his to spend ofthe and a half years as a burglar. More than this, he goes in circitjacket, which holds his arms above his head, and with his legs nanacled. Deputy Sheriff Watson and the four assistants who manned the prison van in which the negro was transferred from the Tombs to the Grand Central Station, said he was the range prisoner they had ever had to e. In the Tombs the keepers conoided with this estimate of Humphries

Policeman John B. Healey of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station caught the negro on the night of last July 14 in the backyard of Mrs. Mary E. Hodgman's home, No 425 West One Hundred and Forty seventh street. It took three other policemen to get him to a cell and half a dozen to get him downtown to the Tombs. He cursed and swore at Judge Mulqueen when he was sentenced, and it required all the attendants in the room to get him across the Bridge of Sighs back to the Tombs There he tried to cut his wrists with some places of glass he got no on knows where, and when he was discovered tried later to set his clothes affre Humphries felgued sick to-day and continued to grown and declare he was dying when his keepers carried him to the van and that vehicle started toward the Grand Central Station with the negre's yells resounding in the canyons the downtown streets.
